Work-Life Law and Policy Clinic

---

The Clinic's Mission:

1 – To provide law students with the training, supervision, and field experience necessary to become effective and reflective lawyers.

2 – To undertake projects advancing the public interest and providing quality representation to individuals and organizations in need.

To accomplish this goal, Clinic students participate in seminar and work on administrative litigation and projects related to employment law and civil justice for the military community.

Course Information:

- Enrollment is limited
- 6 units of graded credit
- 2Ls and all 3Ls are eligible

Time Commitments:

- Students must complete 270 hours of work with the Clinic during the semester.
- Students spend about 20 hours per week on Clinic work, including:
  - Class (usually 3 times weekly);
  - Client and Project work (about 12-16 hours a week); and
  - Orientation on Jan. 7 and 8 from 9 AM to 3 PM.

To Apply:

- Submit your application online at: http://web.law.asu.edu/clinicapplication

For More Information Contact:

- Professor Marcy Karin at marcy.karin@asu.edu

---

What Students Do:

- Students focus on employment law and policy work for low-income individuals. This may include cases and collaborative work related to unemployment insurance, unpaid wages, reasonable accommodations for people with disabilities, discrimination, time off, flexible scheduling, or civil justice for the military community and military families.

- Students are responsible for all aspects of client and project work, including:
  - Interviewing and counseling clients;
  - Fact investigation;
  - Theory and strategy development;
  - Drafting a range of materials such as correspondence, appellate briefs, white papers, one-pagers, self-help and “know your rights” information;
  - Providing limited consultations and participating in community education at collaborative events such as StandDown for veterans experiencing homelessness; and
  - Representing clients in administrative hearings or at oral arguments.

---

web.law.asu.edu/worklifeclinic